The proposed new Farmington and Kannebec railroad is not being allowed to aleep, and the gentlemen engaged in puthing for its immediate construction are his rd at work. They are now arranging for a preliminary meeting, at which steps of amportance will be taken oward perfecting the necessary rarly steps preceding he building of the road. This meeting will probably be held at Augusta and attented by prominent promotors of the railroad all along the intended line. There is no point between Farmington and Augusta that it not alive with rail for the new road and a determination that it shall be built. The matter of making desirable rail and ateamboat connection is now attracting and receiving the attention of the managers which is a most important matter, and of course if it cannot be properly fixed will handicap the building of the line. Freed Augusta comes the tidings that if arrangements with connecting I nes can be properly made and be effected as favorably as they ought to be, the capital necessary for the immediate construction of the road can be subscribed within two months.

How far Congress Constitutional power of the National gov-

The assertion of the State Rights dogma to the extent of denying to the National Covernment this essential function of sovereignty, would seem too absurd for resurrection even twenty-six years after the war that was supposed to remove all doubt of the national supremacy.

Certainly the United States would not permit any foreign government to plead B. N. In fact the United States Government has repeatedly refused to entertain such a plea. "(i) the present occasion the Queen's Ministers seem to have committed the error of assuming that they needed not to look beyond their own local law, enacted for their domestic convenience, and might, under cover of the deficiencies of that law, disregard their sovereign duties toward another sovereign power."

"If, indeed, it were so, the causes of re-clamation on the part of the United States would only be the more positive and sure, for the law of nations assumes that each government is capable of discharging its international obligations; and, perchance, if it be not, then the absence of such capa-bility is itself a specific ground of, respon-sibility for consequences."

In a later case, in a despatch of Secre-

Razor-backed hogs sometimes run wild and kill a man; a slight cold, if turned loose, will do just the same unless you use Adamson's Botavic Cough Balsam. DON'T FERI, WELL,

And yet you are not sick enough to consult a doctor, or you refrain from se doing for fear you will alarm yourself and friends—we will tell you just what you need. It is Hood's Sarsaparilis, which will lift you out of that uncertain, uncomfortable, dangerous condition, into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfulness. You've no idea how potent this peculiar medicine is in cases like yours.

In advanced age the declining powers are wonderfully refreshed by Hood's Sarsaparilia. It really does "make the weak strong." For a disordered liver try Beecham's guests.

I noticed that we were approaching very close to the lights of a war vessel, which was anchored near us, but having confidence in our officers. I had no fear. Just as I was leaving the port hole window, priparatory to going on deck, I heard a terrible crish. The sound of that crash and the awful moments of suspense which followed still ring in my ears.

I rushed on deck, never drawning; however, that an awful disaster had overtaken our ship. When I got on deck the scene was something terrible. Immigrants, wild and frantic, filled the air with their pitcous yells, yells that were londer than the roaring of the wind and the waves. It was a scene of confusion and disorder. It was impossible to maintain even a semblance of distipling among the lamigrants. Women with children in their sams were making vain and heartrending appeals for some one the save them. Stout-hearted men stood appalled and unable to render a helping fland. To the credit of the Tytopla's eyew be it said that they behaved like the and brave sailors. the disaster.:

"A few minutes after I came on deck I seenes of wild confusion so dazed me that for a time, I could not realize the nature of the disaster.!

"A few minutes sher I came on deck I was aroused from the sudden and terrible lethargy this had overtaken me by the shouts of the second officer. Glingig to his arm was the only women cablin passenger, a Miss Sohn, of this city. The second officer rushed alt, got a life-preserver, put it on the young lady and told her to jump for her life. Then it was that I began to appreciate the sericulates of the accident. Glancing over the suraboard rail I noticed a big gash in the steamer's side. The bulkhead had seen torn away and the water was rushing into the steamer's hold. I rushed aft had guasped a life-preserver, but in my exett ment jump it overheard without putting ton me. As I jumped I have Miss Sola uncking a traveletting le for the. As I longht with the monster waves I took a glunce toward the puking ship. About one people were struggling to the surging so, shut the yells and cries that came from more standing on the sloking ship, momentarity expecting to be origitful, were something appaling.

"Never shall I forget that awful cut that went over Gibraltar's bay as the Propia went down which her decks and rigging filled with human beings. When the stip sank, stern first, corrying with her five hundred and sixty people, the stillness that came over the scene of the disaster was contining oppressive.

"As soon as the collision occurred all the Bratish was vessels turned their first hights across the scene of wrick and decolation. The winter was filled with people struggling for life. After I had been in the water about from minutes I saw a boat trem one of the war vessels approaching me. Just at his moment a big black dog, which was the property of Capt. Mc-Knight, came swimming towards me, too. The look of pity that the dumb animal gave me was palked up shortly after me, was also taken aboard the amperdown.
